

Special Terms and Conditions for the Use of VDMA Specification 24186 in the Context of Software Licensed by Licensee of the VDMA Specification:

The Licensor grants the Licensee the non-exclusive right to integrate content into the software developed by it and distributed exclusively by it, which the Licensee names to the Licensor in the order process (hereinafter referred to as "Software").

The Licensee is entitled to make changes and additions. If a partial takeover takes place and/or if changes and additions are made, the Licensee shall be obliged to point out this circumstance within the scope of the obligation to provide information pursuant to § 4. The notice must clearly and unambiguously state that the scope and content of VDMA 24186 has been modified.

Licensee is prohibited from passing on the subject of the license to third parties separately from the software without the prior written consent of Licensor. Any use beyond incorporation in the Software shall also require the expressed prior consent of the Licensor.